

CAMPAIGN CLOSES: ALL CONFIDENT

Congress in all districts except the second, seventh and eighth.

In Missouri of $4,000.
Little Rock, Ark., November 2.—It is estimated that the Democratic majority in Arkansas next Tuesday will be in excess of 50,000 votes.

Four-Fifths for Wilson.
Jackson, Miss., November 2.—In all probability four-fifths of the vote cast next Tuesday in Mississippi will be Democratic. Of the other parties, the Progressives made the most vigorous campaign.

Solidly Democratic.
Dallas, Texas, November 2.—Texas, an original Wilson State, is solidly Democratic. Republican and Progressive party campaigns have been quiet, without indicating which leads.

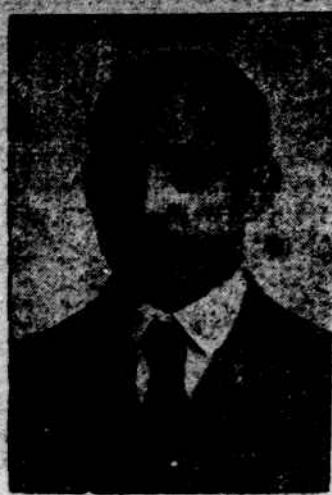

Oklahoma for Wilson.
Oklahoma City, Okla., November 2.—Democratic leaders estimate that Oklahoma, nominally Democratic, will elect Wilson and Marshall electors by a majority of 15,000 and the State ticket by practically the same figures. The Republican situation is admittedly complicated. Progressive party electors were denied a place on the ticket through court action, and recently several of those nominated at Republican electors have been quoted as asserting that they would vote for Roosevelt.

For Congress, Richard T. Morgan.
Republican incumbent in the second district, will have a hard task to defeat John J. Carney, Democrat. The outcome in the first district, where Congressman Bird S. McGuire, Republican, is opposed by John Davis, Democrat, is doubtful. No Progressive party candidates were named for State or congressional offices.

Complicated in Pennsylvania.
Philadelphia, November 2.—The political campaign in Pennsylvania, one of the most interesting in recent years, closed to-night. The Republican, Democratic and Washington party leaders each claim their candidates will carry the State. The Progressive party candidates in Pennsylvania will be voted for principally under the name of the Washington party. The campaign throughout the State has been extremely active. Besides the national ticket great efforts have been made by the Democrats and Progressives to elect their State tickets. The State candidates on the Republican ticket, who are also on the Washington party ticket, have not been endorsed by the local Republican City Committee. The Democratic candidates for State offices will also appear in the Keystone party column.

All Three Claim Delaware.
Wilmington, Del., November 2.—In Delaware almost as much attention has been paid to the three-cornered fight for State offices from Governor down, as there has been to the presidential. The managers of the Republican, Democratic and Progressive parties each claim their forces will elect both the national and State tickets.

In Wisconsin's State.
Trouton, N. J., November 2.—In Governor Wilson's own State of New Jersey, where fourteen electoral votes are claimed by Democrats, Republicans and Progressives alike, there will be decided also on Tuesday whether the next Governor of the State, should Wilson win, and the next United States Senator will be Democratic or Republican. In addition, voters of the State will elect the lower house of the Legislature.

lature and will determine the political complexion of the State Senate, now Republican by a majority of one. Should Governor Wilson win the national election, the next president of the Senate will succeed him as Governor upon his resignation and would continue in office until after the fall election of 1915. The present president of the State Senate is a Republican, United States Senator Briggs, Republican, is a candidate to succeed himself. William Hughes, of Paterson, a former Congressman, is the primary nominee of the Democrats.

No Contest in New York.
New York, November 2.—Instead of winding up the New York State campaign with a rush of meetings Saturday night, as has been customary, the candidates for Governor on the Republican, Democratic and Progressive tickets will carry the fight through without a cessation until late Monday.

Quiet in Maryland's History.
Baltimore, Md., November 2.—The presidential campaign now nearing its end was one of the quietest in the political annals of Maryland. All the party organizations complain of the lack of funds, and a noteworthy feature is the falling off in the registration in Baltimore, which dropped 5,000 below the last previous registration.

Decisive Democratic Victory.
Raleigh, N. C., November 2.—At the close of North Carolina's campaign to-night a decisive victory for the Democrats was predicted.

cratic party was predicted in the presidential election Tuesday. On the State ticket, Progressives and Republicans each are claiming the formal support of Republican voters. Heading the State tickets for Governor are Locke H. Craig, Democrat; Thomas G. Smith, Republican; and Fredell Meares, Progressive.

Close in West Virginia.
Wheeling, W. Va., November 2.—The pre-election struggle in West Virginia ended to-night. That the race between Dr. H. D. Hatfield, Republican, and William R. Thompson, Democrat, for the governorship and with this, the remainder of the State ticket, will be close, there is no doubt.

As to the presidency, with Taft and Roosevelt electoral tickets nominated, here today little room for doubt that Wilson will carry the State by a substantial plurality.

Campaign Closes in Missouri.
St. Louis, Mo., November 2.—The 1912 election campaign came to a close in Missouri to-night, with speakers of all parties making their last appeal for votes. Democratic, Republican and Progressive leaders all declared they would win the State. The Democrats have their hopes largely upon the fact that the Republican party, which for four years controlled the majority of the State officers, was split by the advent of the Progressive party.

Bright Prospects in Kansas.
Topeka, Kan., November 2.—Political affairs in Kansas to-night expressed confidence in the outcome of Tuesday's election. The Democrats claim that success for both national and State tickets is brighter than for years because of the factional fight waged in Kansas between Republicans and Progressives. For Governor the race seemed a close one between Arthur Capen, Republican, with avowed Progressive leanings, and George Hodges, Democrat.

The senatorial race between Governor W. R. Stubbs, Republican-Progressive, and W. H. Thompson, Democrat, will not be decided until the legislature, not bound by the popular vote, assemble.

All Leaders Confident.
St. Paul, Minn., November 2.—After a vigorous presidential campaign in Minnesota, the leaders of the three principal parties to-night predicted success in next Tuesday's election.

Bryan to Close Campaign.
Omaha, Neb., November 2.—The active campaign will not close until Monday evening, when William J. Bryan makes his last address in Lincoln, but other party activities ended to-night.

All Claim Wisconsin.
Milwaukee, Wis., November 2.—State chairmen of the Republican, Democratic and Progressive parties in Wisconsin each asserted to-night that Wisconsin voters would elect presidential electors favorable to his particular candidate Tuesday. Republicans, Democrats and Social Democrats have congressional tickets in the State. Governor Francis E. McGovern, Republican, nominee for re-election, also endorsed by the Progressive party, and Judge John C. Karel, the Democratic nominee, both express confidence.

North Dakota in Doubt.
Grand Forks, N. D., November 2.—While North Dakota is normally Republican, predictions for Tuesday's elections are upset by the fight in the primaries last spring between Senator La Follette and Governor Roosevelt. President Taft receiving a comparatively small vote.

The campaign has been vigorously contested by Progressives, Republican and Democratic parties, and each is forecasting victory.

Close in Iowa.
Des Moines, Iowa, November 2.—The presidential, State and congressional campaigns in Iowa closed to-night. The large corn crop, yet unharvested, is expected to keep the farmers at home next Tuesday.

Chairman F. R. Reed of the Democratic State Committee, to-night predicted that Wilson would poll 210,000 votes, Roosevelt 140,000 and Taft 125,000.

Chairman G. F. Frank, of the Progressive State Committee, declared that the race between Wilson and Roosevelt would be close. Chairman Charles A. Rawson, of the Republican State Committee, would make no statement.

Ohio Fever Widespread.
Chicago, November 2.—Final reports from all of the 103 counties in Illinois indicate that the national election will be affected to a large degree by the fight to control the next Illinois General Assembly, which is to select two United States Senators. This situation makes most complete the struggle among Republicans, Democrats and Progressives for victory in the State.

Setting odds favor Governor Wilson on the national ticket and Governor Charles A. Benson, Republican, for re-election in Ohio. Benson, who has been in the State for a considerable time by reports favoring Colonel Roosevelt and the Progressive ticket. Also an eleven-hour tie for President Taft gave courage to the Republican managers.

An Old-Fashioned Campaign.
Boston, Mass., November 2.—No Massachusetts political campaign in recent years has been marked by so many old-time features as that which closed to-night with Republicans, Democrats and Progressive managers debating issues for the State and national tickets. Speeches, parades, band concerts and whirling speakers have been a nightly occurrence.

Governor Eugene F. Fox, who seeks re-election on the Democratic ticket; Charles A. Benson, Republican, for re-election; and Joseph P. O'Connell, Progressive, are the main contestants. The next Legislature will be called upon to fill the place of United States Senator W. Murray Green, who has declined to succeed.

The Democrats have two announced candidates for the governorship, Mayor John F. Fitzgerald and former Congressman Joseph P. O'Connell. O'Connell is the favorite of the Progressive party. The Republicans have two announced candidates, Governor Fox and former Governor Eben A. Draper, a Republican candidate.

Massachusetts Light in Maine.
Portland, Me., November 2.—For the first time since the days of the Greenback party the Democrats in Maine are opposed by a divided Republican party in the contest for the State's electoral college. The Republicans and Progressives worked together in the State campaign in September and won. The party came after that demonstrations here to-night. The three big parties held meetings, and the candidate for cash for Governor was the headline at these meetings. The gubernatorial race is between Samuel A. Holston, Democrat; W. T. Durbin, Republican; and Albert J. Beveridge.

Three Complete Tickets.
Providence, R. I., November 2.—Rhode Island's complete State tickets are in the field for the Republicans, Democrats and Progressives. On the Progressive ticket the final word here is expected to be said by Governor Johnson, of California, Monday.

Progressives Favorites in Betting.
Detroit, Mich., November 2.—The close of the Michigan campaign finds the three leading parties, Republican, Democratic and Progressive, claiming victory. The Socialists, while not claiming majorities, predict the biggest Michigan vote ever polled by their party. The Progressive national ticket is the favorite in the betting early.

Amos Musselman is the Republican candidate for Governor; L. Whitney Watkins, Progressive, and Woodbridge N. Ferris, the Democratic candidate.

Utah Campaign Managers Agree that 30 per cent of the vote in Utah is doubtful. The Progressives have a complete State ticket in the field and claim they have been gaining strength at the expense of the Republicans, while the Democratic managers claim their supporters have been standing firm.

Vigorous Campaigns Close.
Cincinnati, O., November 2.—The Republican and Progressive brought their speaking campaigns to an end to-night, while the Democrats will maintain their activity right up to the dawn of election day. Leaders of all factions express confidence.

Senator La Follette, President Taft and Governor Roosevelt, Governor Wilson, William J. Bryan and Governor Harrison have made numerous speeches here. Vigorous campaigns have been waged by the three gubernatorial candidates.

Light Vote Expected.
Albuquerque, N. M., November 2.—With the close to-night of the first presidential campaign in New Mexico, comparatively a light vote next Tuesday is expected. There are three tickets in the field for presidential electors and one for Congress.

Hot Contest in Colorado.
Denver, Col., November 2.—Colorado to-night closed a most hotly contested political campaign. Republicans are claiming for victory in the choice of presidential electors, four progressive in Congress and complete legislative tickets. For the time, the voters will express preferences for United States senators.

Ready for the Ballot.
Cheyenne, Wyo., November 2.—Three parties claiming Wyoming's 20,000 and the Progressives a small majority, the voters are out for election day Tuesday. The main fight of the campaign has been on the re-election of Senator Francis K. Warren, Republican, John B. Kendrick, Democrat.

Each Claims Montana.
Helena, Mont., November 2.—Agers of the Democratic, Republican and Progressive parties claim Montana for their respective candidates the close of the campaign to-night. The contest for the governorship has been spirited, and supporters of the candidates claim victory.

Less interest is being taken in preferential vote for United States Senator.

Many Candidates in Oregon.
Portland, Ore., November 2.—The presidential fight is closed in Oregon. The contest for United States Senator, so-called "single tax" measures and equal suffrage, are to be voted on, in addition to other constitutional amendments. The candidates are making a hard fight to secure a referendum and measure. There are candidates for forty-three offices.

Hard Fight in Washington.
Seattle, Wash., November 2.—The feature of the Washington campaign has been the savage attack made by the Republicans upon the personal character of Robert Hodge, Progressive candidate for Governor. The attack, the Democrats say, has benefited Ernest Lister, their candidate for Governor. The Republicans are making a hard fight to elect Governor Marion E. Hay and also Congressmen.

Strawman Battle Over.
Reno, Nev., November 2.—A strenuous campaign was practically closed to-night in Nevada. It was decided by the contest for United States Senator, so-called "single tax" measures and equal suffrage, are to be voted on, in addition to other constitutional amendments. The candidates are making a hard fight to secure a referendum and measure. There are candidates for forty-three offices.

Each Claims Florida.
Phoenix, Ariz., November 2.—Democrats, Progressives and Republicans alike claim Arizona with a rally. The re-election of Congressman Carl Hayden, Democrat, is certain. No other officers will be elected. The recall of Judges and amending the State the right to petition in industrial pursuits are expected to carry. The vote on woman's suffrage is expected to be close.

November Burns Brides Anything!

Will highly appreciate a nice piece of Mahogany Furniture, such as an odd Table or Chair

If you'll notice our windows in passing you'll see many suggestions for practical presents.

It even astonishes us the large amount of Mahogany Furniture we're selling—three floors of our big seven-story building are entirely taken up for the display of Mahogany.

We show genuine Mahogany Burns—over 75 different styles—from $30.00 to $220.00 each; and a Little Scroll Bedroom Set of four pieces (French roll bed and scroll chiffonier, dresser and toilet table, all to match), in mahogany finished gum, for $96.00. This is a gem.

The "Jurgens Novelty" is the only stove to use in this climate

For instance, any other stove that would have kept your house warm yesterday would have roasted you out of the house last Thursday and Friday. Then, again, the price of anthracite coal makes this stove doubly attractive. The price of the three sizes are $17.50, $21.50 and $23.50, and the $23.50 stove will come pretty near heating an entire house. See this wonderful stove and be convinced.

We also carry the "Comet" and other well-known heaters.
